Where great books are always on the horizon

FALL 2010

Mysteries · Thrillers · General Fiction

In the vast sea of independent publishers, one name rises to the top:

When we started Oceanview Publishing in 2006, we endeavored to create a tradition of excellence in independent publishing. We love books — and we only publish books we love. Each title we publish is handpicked, lovingly created, and carefully edited, marketed, and promoted.

Now, as one of the fastest growing independent publishers in the U.S., Oceanview is recognized as one of the country's preeminent publishers of original mystery, thriller, and suspense titles. At Oceanview, we put passion in publishing. If it's on Oceanview's list, then it should definitely be on your shelves.

Our Fall 2010 list will keep you turning pages all night with a frighteningly good assortment of new books. The list includes Don't Sweat the Small Stuff by Don Bruns, and Bitter Legacy, by H. Terrell Griffin—sequels from two adventurous Florida-based series; And Then There Was One, a new thrilling suspense novel from award-winning author Patricia Gussin; Book of Nathan, a hilarious and controversial debut novel by a pair of new authors, Curt Weeden and Richard Marek; and Kind of Blue, a hard-hitting police mystery from an acclaimed nonfiction author, Miles Corwin.

At Oceanview, great books are always on the horizon, and we are delighted to introduce our Fall 2010 list.

The road to hell is paved with good intentions, and Rick Bullock is about to learn just how true that is.

Rick Bullock takes the road less traveled when he quits his job as an advertising executive to become director of a homeless shelter. Trading in a six-figure salary for paltry pay and even less respect? Costly. But helping one man get back on his feet? Priceless.

When Zeus, a mentally challenged gentle giant and longtime shelter resident, is arrested for murdering evangelist Benjamin Kurios, Rick wants answers. Convinced Zeus is incapable of such a horrific act, Rick, along with a colorful cadre of characters, sets off on a journey to keep an innocent man off death row.

The trip takes a disturbing detour when the bizarre group stumbles upon a transcript of the Book of Nathan and the discovery attracts the sinister attentions of a Jersey mobster, pro-life and pro-choice groups, and a billionaire used to getting his way. Rick knows how to save a life, but this time, his life may be the one at stake.

Curt Weeden a former Johnson & Johnson corporate vice president, is president of of Business & Nonprofit Strategies, Inc., a consulting firm that focuses on business social responsibility strategies. Weeden lives in South Carolina.

Richard Marek is former president and publisher of E. P. Dutton and editor in chief of The Dial Press. Marek has edited over three hundred books, including Thomas Harris's The Silence of the Lambs. Marek lives in Connecticut.

“The hero of this comedy-tinged thriller boasts a unique background and profession as he turns amateur sleuth. The intricate plot reveals many unexpected twists and turns.”

—Karen Moy, Vice President—Creative Affairs, Sony Pictures Entertainment

“Wrapped around one of the most divisive issues of the day, this is a book that sizzles to the last page.”

—James R. Clifford, author of Double Daggers

When a routine delivery of an airplane goes horribly wrong, Frank “Jammer” Davis will have to figure out if this crash scene is really a crime scene.

At six feet four and two hundred forty pounds, Frank “Jammer” Davis has always made a big name for himself. A retired Air Force fighter pilot hired on as part of the NTSB’s “go team,” Davis has a reputation for getting things done—and for his headstrong, uncompromising ways.

When a brand new C-500 falls like a stone in France from six miles up, killing the two American pilots aboard, French officials take over this highly public investigation, but the U.S. National Transportation Safety Board wants one of the pilots investigated, and they call in the best there is: they call Jammer Davis.

With its sophisticated fly-by-wire design, the C-500 earned a reputation as the world’s safest cargo plane. So why would this plane fall out of the sky? But just as Davis starts his investigation, news of the crash is overshadowed by a more spectacular disaster: suicide bombers attack oil refineries across the world, sending governments and financial markets into a tailspin.

When Davis uncovers the cause of the crash, and its terrifying connection to this worldwide disaster, it is a conspiracy of unthinkable proportions—a conspiracy he might not be able to stop. Jammer Davis won’t stop until he gets answers—or until somebody stops him from getting answers.

As a fighter pilot in the United States Air Force, award-winning novelist Ward Larsen flew over twenty combat missions in Operation Desert Storm. He has also worked as a federal law enforcement officer and an aircraft accident investigator. Presently, he is a captain for a major airline and resides with his family in Florida. He is also the author of The Perfect Assassin (page 23) and Stealing Trinity (page 8).

One is the loneliest number.

Nine years ago, Katie and Scott Monroe were blessed beyond their wildest dreams with identical triplets, Sammie, Alex, and Jackie. Three beautiful daughters and two adoring parents formed the picture-perfect party of five. But this tight-knit family unravels when the three little girls go to see a movie, but only one emerges from the darkness of the theatre. How could Sammie and Alex vanish without a trace?

Plunged into the abyss of a parent's worst fear, Katie and Scott hang by a thread—waiting, worrying, not knowing, and confronting the terrifying realization that the kidnapping may not have been a random act.

Who took Sammie and Alex? Why? Where are they? When will they be found? And what if they're never found, or not found alive? When Jackie, the remaining triplet, crumbles under the weight of grief and survivor's guilt, Katie and Scott struggle to hold out hope and hold on to what remains of their family.

Until—or unless—Sammie and Alex are found safe, this picture-perfect family can't be put back together again.

Patricia Gussin is a physician who grew up in Grand Rapids, Michigan, practiced in Philadelphia, and now lives on Longboat Key, Florida. She is also the author of Shadow of Death (page 25), Thriller Award nominee for “Best First Novel,” Twisted Justice (page 25), and The Test (page 24). She and her husband, Robert Gussin, are the authors of What's Next... For You? (page 22).

“Mesmerizing! And Then There Was One reaches deep into the heart of any parent's nightmare.”

—Lisa Gardner, New York Times best-selling author of The Neighbor

“The urgency and intensity is so palpable you'll feel out of breath by the time you've raced your way to the ending.”

—Alex Kava, New York Times best-selling author of Black Friday

“And Then There Was One will snatch you away as deftly and completely as a kidnapper in the dark.” —Laura Benedict, author of Calling Mr. Lonely Hearts

Leaving the force nearly ruined Ash Levine's life.
But rejoining the force could end it.

When a legendary ex-cop is murdered in L.A., the pressure's on to find the killer. Lt. Frank Duffy needs his best detective on the case, but his best detective, Ash Levine, quit a year ago.

A tenacious, obsessive detective, Ash resigned after Latisha Patton, the witness in a homicide case he was working, was murdered. Without his job, Ash is left unanchored—and consumed with guilt that he somehow caused Latisha's murder.

When he's asked to rejoin the force, Ash reluctantly agrees. Getting his badge back could give him the chance to find Latisha's killer.

Ash dives headfirst into the shadowlands of Southern California to investigate the ex-cop's murder. But even when he has a suspect in custody, something about this case doesn't sit right with Ash, and he continues working the increasingly dangerous investigation while quietly chasing leads in Latisha's murder.

Unable to let either case go until he has answers, Ash finds that his obsessive nature, which propels him into a world of private compromises and public corruption, is a flaw that might prove fatal.

A native of Los Angeles, Miles Corwin is former crime reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Corwin is a best-selling author whose previous books include The Killing Season, And Still We Rise, and Homicide Special.

"Kind of Blue is my kind of book, and I think Miles Corwin is a novelist to watch.

This book has character and texture, action and reflection.

James Lessor and Skip Moore are in for the ride of their lives.

It's official: stumbling, bumbling James Lessor and Skip Moore are licensed private investigators. Now, that's some scary stuff.

It could take time to get Moore or Less Investigations off the ground, so James takes a job with a traveling carnival show. But this show has a dubious reputation, having had a string of accidents and at least one death in the past year.

When they're hired to investigate what's caused the carnival chaos, James and Skip set into motion a dizzying, roller coaster chain of events.

After a terrifying trip on the Dragon Tail ride, a not-so-fun dust-up in Freddy's Fun House, and a host of threats, James and Skip realize they'll get anything but cooperation from this cantankerous cast of carnies.

But when a carnival worker is murdered, James and Skip will have to act fast—because they might be next in line.

For James and Skip, the only thing sweeter than the smell of corndogs and fried dough will be the sweet smell of success, but in this case “success” means getting out alive. This investigation is going completely off the rails.

Don Bruns is an award-winning novelist, songwriter, musician, and advertising executive, who lives in South Florida. He is also the author of Stuff to Spy For (page 20), Stuff Dreams Are Made Of (page 21), Stuff to Die For (page 21), Bahama Burnout (page 30), St. Barts Breakdown (page 31), South Beach Shakedown (page 31), Barbados Heat, and Jamaica Blue.

Matt Royal has gotten himself into a royal mess.

After a week away, Matt Royal's ready to get back to the Longboat Key good life—good fishing, good food, good beer, and more good fishing. But Matt comes back to bad news: while he was away, a sniper tried to kill one of his best friends.

Even worse, now that Matt's back, someone's trying to kill him. And whoever is trying to kill him is trying really hard.

With no clue who's after him or why, Matt soon finds he's at the center of a mystery involving a lawyer's murder, a tourist left for dead, a ruthless biker gang, a reclusive billionaire with nothing to lose, and an ancient document that could bring ruin to some of the most entrenched financial interests in Florida.

Between solving the mystery and staying alive, Matt's got his hands full. But he'd better watch out or his hard-charging ways could get him sideways with the newest member of Longboat Key's police force, the undeniably attractive Jennifer Duncan.

For Matt, it's shaping up to be a really long week. Matt Royal had better hope he makes it to the weekend—because this might be the week that ends it all.

Award-winning novelist H. Terrell Griffin is a board-certified trial lawyer who practiced in Orlando for thirty-eight years. He and his wife, Jean, divide their time between Longboat Key, Florida, and Maitland, Florida. Griffin is also the author of Wyatt's Revenge (page 18), Blood Island (page 19), Murder Key, and Longboat Blues.

When the balance of world power is at stake, the fight for control could be explosive.

In the last days of WWII, the Third Reich makes a desperate grab to retrieve its most valuable asset, Die Wespe, a spy buried deep in the Manhattan Project. The man chosen for this mission is Alexander Braun—American born, Harvard educated, and a ruthless killer.

British Intelligence learns of the Nazi plan. Unable to convince their American counterparts of the magnitude of the threat, they dispatch Major Michael Thatcher to track down Braun.

The trail leads to Rhode Island, where Lydia Cole, a young heiress, has unwittingly taken Braun back into her life. Braun is forced to run, and there is one place where he must go—Los Alamos, home of the Manhattan Project.

On July 16, 1945, the world's first atomic bomb is tested—code named Trinity. In the days that follow, four people—a tenacious British investigator, a determined young woman, a killer, and the spy who could compromise America's greatest scientific endeavor—will have a fateful rendezvous.

And they're vying for control of the secret that will shape the world.

"An innovative, original plot marks Larsen as an author to watch."

—Publishers Weekly

"A well-written, well-researched, and compelling tale."

Social worker Clare Conover is about to be thrust into her worst nightmare. She just never dreamed it would be this case.

Claire Conover honestly believed she could make a difference in the world until she gets the phone call she's dreaded her entire career. One of her young clients, Michael, has been found dead and his mother, Ashley, has been arrested for his murder. And who made the decision to return Michael to Ashley? Claire Conover.

Ashley had seemingly done everything right—gotten clean, found a place to live, worked two jobs, and earned back custody of her son. Devastated but determined to discover where her instincts failed her, Claire vows to find the truth about what really happened to Michael.

What Claire finds is no shortage of suspects. Ashley's boyfriend made no secret that he didn't want children. And Ashley's stepfather, an alcoholic and chronic gambler, has a shady past. And what about Michael's mysterious father and his family? Or Ashley herself? Was she really using again?

Amidst a heap of unanswered questions, one thing is for certain: Claire Conover is about to uncover secrets that could ruin lives—or end her own.

Margaret Fenton was born in Florence, Alabama, and grew up on the Gulf Coast in Ocean Springs, Mississippi. She received her B.A. in English from the Newcomb College of Tulane University in New Orleans, and her Master of Social Work from Tulane. Margaret lives with her husband in Birmingham, Alabama.

“With her fine ear for regional speech, Fenton may do for Birmingham what Margaret Maron has done for rural North Carolina.” —Publishers Weekly

“A relentless social worker makes an intriguing amateur sleuth, and Birmingham offers a fresh take on the New South as a setting for crime fiction. With this sold debut, Fenton—herself a social worker—has set the stage for a promising new series.” —Booklist

Mary Magruder Katz is about to find herself in the eye of storm.

Miami in June: it's raining, it's pouring, but the life of criminal defense attorney Mary Magruder Katz is anything but boring—especially when she gets caught up in a whirlwind of three different cases.

Judge Liz Maxwell's job, sanity, and reputation are at stake, and she needs Mary to ferret out wrongdoing in Miami's courts. Solving this case won't just mean going out on a limb; it will mean risking life and limb.

Luis Corona, a family friend of Mary's boyfriend, Carlos, needs help with a legal matter that, to Mary's horror, turns out to be a terrorism charge. And this case will leave some catastrophic damage—and unwelcome notoriety—in its wake.

Just when Mary thought things couldn't get worse, Carlos gets in his own nasty legal quandary—one that could cost him everything.

Three cases. One Mary. One torrential downpour of turmoil.

Can she weather the storm? Ride out the cold front that settles over her once-hot romance? Salvage what remains of her—and her clients'—reputations?

For Mary Magruder Katz, this month's forecast calls for trouble.

Barbara Levenson was elected to a judgeship in the circuit court of Miami-Dade County where she still serves as a senior judge. Barbara, who has lived in Miami, Florida, for the past thirty-three years, is also the author of Fatal February.

This good girl is about to find herself in a really bad situation.

For half-Jewish, half-Southern Baptist Miami criminal defense attorney Mary Magruder Katz, life starts to spin completely out of control when a minor fender bender turns out to be an unlikely shot from Cupid's bow.

Carlos Martin, the other car's driver, isn't just a distracted driver; he's distracting. Carlos is charming, handsome, and mysterious. Hardly before she knows what hit her, Mary breaks off her engagement, jumps into a sizzling romance with Carlos, gets fired from her former fiancé's highbrow law firm, starts her own practice, and lands her first client, Lillian Yarmouth.

But Lillian isn't just any client; she's the prime suspect in what's become the Miami society murder of the year.

While investigating Lillian's alleged crime of passion, Mary finds that this case, like all matters of the heart, is anything but black-and-white. And Mary has clearly stumbled onto something that has someone seeing red.

February may be the shortest month of the year, but Mary's got some long days (and nights) ahead.

This month could be a real killer.

Sometimes a game isn't really a game.

Longing for escape from his mundane existence as a Stanford computer science major, Jason Lind signs up to play Fortuna, an online role-playing game set in Renaissance Florence.

From the first, fateful mouse click, Jason tumbles into the vibrant, lush, anonymous world of Fortuna. Swept up in this highly complex, highly addictive game of fame, fortune, and power, Jason quickly transitions from casual gamer to compulsive player.

Soon tangled up in a steamy virtual love triangle, Jason becomes obsessed with breaking Fortuna's code of anonymity. But Fortuna is anything but fun and games, and when a sizeable debt incurred in the game spills over into reality, Jason is forced to leverage the legacy of his father, a high-tech legend killed in a car accident years before, to pay off the debt.

What started as a great escape may only leave Jason trapped, as the game that transported Jason deep into the past exposes a shocking, present-day reality.

In the world of Fortuna, it's not how you play the game; it's if you survive.

Michael R. Stevens is a contributing editor for several high-profile Web sites in the technology arena. He lives in Berkeley, California.

"Wild and addicting! I couldn't tear my eyes from Michael Stevens's masterpiece, a blend of high-tech computer games, gangsters, and medieval Florence that rivals a Steve Berry thriller for chill-inducing fun."

When twenty of the world's most powerful leaders meet at the G8 Summit, the fate of the world will rest on one man's shoulders.

Twenty world leaders meet for the G8 Summit at the beautiful Cheyenne Resort in Colorado Springs. But an ugly plot lurks beneath the surface: a terrorist group, The Fallen Angels, plans to wreak havoc on the Summit.

With the Secret Service, the FBI, Homeland Security, the military, and security from twenty different governments on hand, shouldn't the resort be the safest place in the world?

It seems impossible that a terrorist group could infiltrate the Summit. And yet they do. Within minutes, twenty world leaders are taken hostage, and Richard Coffee, the group's leader, makes his first demand: release twenty detainees from Guantanamo Bay, or he'll execute one leader each hour until his demands are met.

Only one man can disrupt this plot. Derek Stillwater is that man.

The clock is ticking.

Mark Terry is a freelance writer, editor, and novelist. The author of The Devil's Pitchfork, The Serpent's Kiss, Dirty Deeds, and a collection of mystery novellas entitled Catfish Guru, Mark lives in Michigan.

"The Fallen is a real page-turner, everything a first-rate thriller should be."

—ForeWord Reviews

"Blisteringly paced and unrelenting, Mark Terry's The Fallen reminded me of Day of the Jackal, but with a modern polish.

With a ripped-from-the-headlines urgency, here is a novel that will keep people talking long after the last page is turned."

Michael Knight is a young lawyer who's going places.

But this case could take him to the most dangerous place in the world.

After graduating from Harvard Law with his closest friend, John McKedrick, Michael Knight practices with the U.S. Attorney's office and with a prestigious trial firm in Boston. When Michael and his mentor, the legendary trial attorney Lex Devlin, form Devlin & Knight to do criminal defense work, John becomes sole associate of a notorious mob lawyer.

Michael never lost hope that John McKedrick would escape to “cleaner pastures”—until John is murdered in a car bombing bearing the signature of his questionable clientele.

How could two friends who were so close have taken such wildly divergent paths?

In the wake of McKedrick's murder, three men who took their own deviating paths will meet for the first time in forty years. Matt Ryan, a priest; Dominic Santangelo, a Mafia don; and Lex Devlin, a cynical trial attorney, put the past aside to focus on a present concern: Dominic's son is charged with John McKedrick's murder.

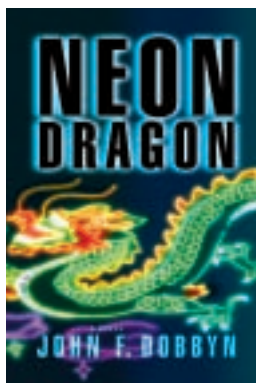

At Lex's urging, Michael Knight reluctantly agrees to represent the alleged bomber. In building a defense and investigating John's murder, Michael is drawn into a high-stakes art fraud that leads him from the seediest parts of Boston to the sophisticated Amsterdam inner sanctum of international crime.

As he races to penetrate the dangerous world of priceless art and worthless criminals, Michael Knight learns that the ruthless players in this game will do anything to make sure his work is left unfinished.

A native of Boston, John F. Dobbyn has served as a professor of law at Villanova Law School since 1969. He and his wife, Lois, live in Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. Dobbyn is also the author of Neon Dragon (opposite).

“If you enjoy gritty legal thrillers, you will love Frame-Up. Settle back in your chair for a polished book that will be compared to Dennis Lehane's Mystic River.”

A full-spread-ahead legal thriller that will keep you transfixed right up to the end.

Amid the flash and din of Boston's raucous Chinese New Year's celebration, an elderly man is shot while watching the parade from his window. Anthony Bradley, the son of an African-American judge, is standing across the street at the time and is immediately arrested for the crime.

Michael Knight, a young lawyer who's going places, is surprised when Judge Bradley asks him to defend his son in such a high-profile and politically delicate case. Luckily, Knight finds powerful support from Lex Devlin, a senior partner at his firm. Once the foremost criminal defense attorney in Boston, Devlin has mysteriously withdrawn from defense work in recent years.

As Knight and Devlin investigate and prepare their client's defense, Knight is forced to confront the murky allegations that eclipsed his mentor's career, and enter into the shadow world of gangland Chinatown.

From the halls of Harvard to the streets of Chinatown, Knight doggedly pursues an investigation that involves drugs, prostitution, human trafficking, and a corruption scandal that could bring down the most powerful people in Boston.

“This debut novel by law professor Dobbyn marks the first long-form appearance of legal eagles Michael Knight and Lex Devlin, who’ve starred in several of the author’s short stories. Dobbyn, who knows his characters like the back of his hand, is an engaging writer, and readers who have followed the adventures of Knight and Devlin in short stories will give a small cheer that they’ve finally made the leap to the hardcover novel.” —Booklist

“Readers of early John Grisham and Jeremiah Healy will enjoy Dobbyn’s debut for his insider knowledge of the legal system and the defense strategy his protagonists use in court.” —Library Journal

What's happening on this island will make your blood run cold.

When Matt Royal and his buddies invade an island in a Grady-White 282 Sailfish, expect the unexpected. For this fun-loving lawyer turned beach bum, things are about to get serious. Dead serious.

Packed with dynamite, leap-off-the-page action, and resplendent with unexpected twists and turns, Blood Island combines the unmistakable heat of South Florida with spine-chilling suspense.

“Griffin’s breezy first-person narration brings the likable Matt, with his killer reflexes and wry sense of humor, vividly to life.” —Publishers Weekly

“Blood Island is a thoroughly entertaining, old-school Florida mystery novel that fans of the region and the genre will love.” —Booklist

“Terry Griffin has done it again. Griffin’s third book promises to be another bookshelf staple.” —The Longboat Observer

“Fast-paced, witty, full of characters that step off the page, and packed with more action than a Schwarzenegger movie. If you like action, Griffin is the real deal.”

Stuff to Spy For

Don Bruns

ISBN: 978-1-933515-22-9

Mystery, 288 pages

Hardcover, 6 1/8 x 9 1/8

$25.95

Could James Lessor and Skip Moore possibly have the right stuff to launch new careers as intelligence professionals? Well, more or less . . .

Best friends James Lessor and Skip Moore are still stuck in dead-end jobs, still living in their ratty apartment in Carol City, but still dreaming of hitting the big time. It seems those dreams are finally within reach when James lands a job to install a state-of-the-art security system for Synco Systems. There's a huge commission—and plenty of strings—attached. To collect on the cash, James will have to provide “additional services” by assuming the role of pretend boyfriend of Sarah Crumbly, an employee who's having an affair with Sandler Conroy, Synco's married president.

When Sandler's wife offers James a tidy sum for the dirty details about what's going on at Synco, James and Skip resurrect their entrepreneurial dreams and go into the business of being spies. The spymobile—their beloved, rattletrap of a box truck—is on its last legs, and they'll have to spend a small fortune on spy equipment, but there's no business like spy business.

“Be prepared for some laugh-out-loud moments.”

Non-fiction, 144 pages

Trade Paper, 5 1/2 x 8 1/4, $13.50

Introducing What's Next... For You?

The Gussin Guide to Big Decisions, Big Changes, and Big Fun

But, you may ask, doesn't Oceanview publish mysteries? Well, yes, but there's one big mystery we need to solve: How Oceanview came to be.

We start at the most logical source: Oceanview founders Bob and Pat Gussin. And what follows is an incredible story about how two "retirees" watch with glee as their retirement turns into something more than they ever imagined as long, successful, careers in science and medicine give way to writing, publishing, and winemaking.

A must-read tale of joyfully switching gears, changing careers, and overcoming "paralysis by analysis," What's Next... For You? takes the mystery out of that all-too-common question of how to get from where you are to where you want to be.

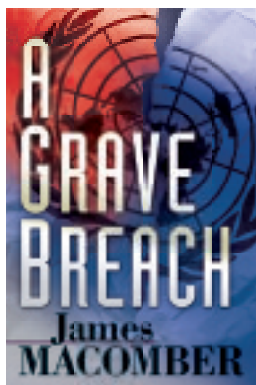

What's Next... For You? is a clear, easy-to-understand guide to reinventing yourself from real experts—two people who did it themselves and lived to tell the glorious tale.

Patricia Gussin is a physician who grew up in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and practiced in Philadelphia. She is also the author of Shadow of Death (page 25), Thriller Award nominee for "Best First Novel," Twisted Justice (page 25), The Test (page 24), and And Then There Was One (page 4).

Robert Gussin, former Chief Scientific Officer for Johnson & Johnson, grew up in Pittsburgh, lived in Philadelphia, and worked in New Jersey. He is also the author of Trash Talk (page 34). Robert and Patricia Gussin divide their time between Longboat Key, Florida, East Hampton, New York, and their vineyards in New Zealand.

"As informed and informative as it is inspired and inspiring, What's Next... For You? is thoroughly 'reader friendly' and highly recommended."

Suspense, 336 pages

Hardcover, 6 1/8 x 9 1/8

$25.95

In the end, this test may be much more than a matter of pass or fail.
This test could be a matter of life—or death.

Renowned philanthropist and billionaire Paul Parnell had reached the pinnacle of monetary success, but not without cost. Had he put too much emphasis on work, and spent too little time with his family?

Determined to leave something far more valuable than money to his six children, Paul instructs his lawyers to create an unusual last will and testament. This unorthodox will, which stipulates that the lion's share of Paul's two billion dollar estate be given to the heirs who pass "the test," was Paul's last hope of creating a lasting legacy by inspiring his children to give back to society and embrace a code of moral values.

The six children—Rory, Frank, Dan, Monica, Carla, and Ashley—have only one year to make a difference. But what a difference one year will make.

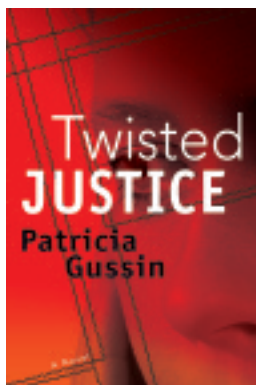

Before these six very different siblings can complete the test, they'll be forced to face their personal demons, and the incredibly evil influence that could claim one of their own.

"Fans of TV's Dynasty and Sidney Sheldon will like Gussin's stand-alone suspense novel. The plot takes a number of terrifying twists before Gussin reveals the answer."

—Publishers Weekly

"What really keeps the reader's attention, and the pages turning late into the night, is the crisp writing, deft handling of the relationships between the family members, and evolution of the characters."

Talk is cheap, but when this radio host takes action, she may pay the ultimate price.

An outspoken, brash, native New Yorker, Sammy Greene isn't afraid to ruffle a few feathers at Ellsford University, her ultraconservative New England college. The host of The Hot Line, a talk radio show on campus station WELL, Sammy tackles the toughest, most controversial issues facing Ellsford's student body.

When Sammy discovers the body of Dr. Burton Conrad, one of Ellsford's most revered and esteemed professors, her journalistic drive kicks in and she sets out to find answers to what happened to the beloved professor. But when several Ellsford students mysteriously disappear, Sammy realizes she's uncovered the seamy, terrifying underbelly of this prestigious institute of higher education.

With the entire campus in peril, and demons from her own past close behind, Sammy Greene must race to find answers. Along the way, she'll discover some unlikely allies—and even more unlikely enemies.

Collision of Evil

John J. Le Beau

ISBN: 978-1-933515-54-0
International Thriller, 336 pages
Hardcover, 6 1/8 x 9 1/8
$25.95

Past and present are about to collide in the most terrifying way imaginable.

As evening falls against the majestic backdrop of the Bavarian Alps, Charles Hirter, an American tourist, is savagely murdered. Shattering the peace, quiet, and pastoral splendor of this magnificent setting, Charles Hirter draws his last breath. Was Charles simply in the wrong place at the wrong time?

Kommissar Franz Waldbaer, the German detective in charge of the case, faces an investigation that yields neither clues nor suspects nor motives. A gruff, go-it-alone detective, Waldbaer is dismayed by the arrival of Robert Hirter, the victim's brother, who insists on joining the investigation. But there is more to Robert than meets the eye.

As Robert and Waldbaer uncover a nefarious nexus of evil past and evil present, they find themselves probing dark, long-forgotten episodes from the Third Reich in order to identify the present threat.

Thrust into a violent world of fanatic passions, malevolent intentions, and excruciating urgency, Robert Hirter and Waldbaer must race against the clock to stop a sophisticated, covert, and deadly plot.

John J. Le Beau served as a clandestine operations officer in the Central Intelligence Agency for over twenty-five years. Since January 2006, Dr. Le Beau has served as a Professor of National Security Studies in the College of International Security Studies at the George C. Marshall European Center for Security Studies in Garmisch, Germany. Collision of Evil is his first novel.

“Engrossing and suspenseful. A definite thumbs-up for fans of thrillers with historical and political overtones.”

Bahama Burnout

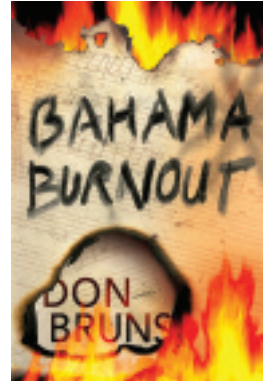

Don Bruns

ISBN: 978-1-933515-20-5

Mystery, 256 pages

Hardcover, 6 1/8 x 9 1/8

$24.95

It's not always better to burn out than to fade away.

Another story, another island paradise—all in a day's work for rock-and-roll reporter Mick Sever. This time, Mick heads to Nassau, Bahamas, home of the legendary Highland Studios. Known for pumping out hits that burn up the charts, Highland is where the magic happens—or rather, where the magic happened until a devastating fire destroyed the entire studio. No one knows how the fire started, who started it—or whose body was found among the charred ruins.

Sent to get the inside story on the opening of the new Highland Studios, Mick finds this is hardly the phoenix-rising-out-of-the-ashes story he expected. Some say Highland is haunted, some say it's cursed, but one thing is for sure: someone — or something — wants to stop the music. A smashed guitar and erased tracks send a subtle warning, but murder? That's an entirely different tune.

If Mick doesn't act fast, Highland Studios, and everything and everyone in its path, could go up in smoke.

—Publishers Weekly

“A riveting read from first page to last.”

—Midwest Book Review
